

THE CLARKSBURG DAILY TELEGRAM, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1910. PAGE SEVEN

Attention Clarksburg Merchants and Manufacturers

(The following appeared in the news columns of a local newspaper recently. For obvious reasons the name of the catalog house is omitted, but will be furnished by the Telegram on request.)

"ONE DAY'S MAIL AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE IS FIVE CAR LOADS

Largest Amount Yesterday, It is Thought, in History of the Clarksburg Office.

Five car loads, 50,000 catalogs, sent here by the a mail order house, of New York city, were distributed and sent out from the Clarksburg postoffice yesterday. The postage on each catalog was seven cents, and the total postage aggregates $3,500.00. The distributing of the catalogs kept the regular and extra clerks at the postoffice busy. On Third street in front of the government building, mail sacks were piled high, and hundreds of persons who passed during the day stopped and watched the clerks arrange and get the big mail ready to send out."

The Telegram knows of no reason why the people of central West Virginia should patronize foreign catalog houses in preference to Clarksburg merchants and manufacturers, and with the co-operation of Clarksburg merchants and manufacturers will conduct a gigantic "Buy in Clarksburg" campaign which will extend throughout the holiday season. By this campaign it will be proved that Clarksburg merchants and manufacturers are able to give better merchandise, better prices and better service to the people of central West Virginia than catalog houses in distant cities.
